Claim 8, line 1: "with." has been changed to --with:--

Examiner's Comment

By the above examiner's amendment, an obvious clerical error has been corrected, i.e., an internal period in claim 8 has been replaced with a colon.

Reasons for Allowance

The following is an examiner's statement of reasons for allowance:

Claims 1-14 are allowable over the closest prior art to Priddy et al and Boutillier '402.

Each document discloses rubber-modified polymer composition comprising a matrix phase of vinyl aromatic polymer, e.g., polystyrene, and particles of a polybutadiene rubber functionalized with a stable free radical group or a group which generates a stable free radical. Neither document, however, mentions any of the characteristics a) – d) of the applicants' claimed composition. Moreover, both documents teach preparing the composition by a procedure different to that used by applicants. That is, the disclosed compositions are prepared by a batch-type polymerization conducted in a glass ampoule (Priddy et al) or a stirred glass reactor (Boutillier '402), which is unlike the continuous process employed by applicants (per the specification, page 11, ll. 30+ and page 13, Examples). In view of the difference in polymerization procedure, there is no basis to justify an inference of inherency as to any of the undisclosed characteristics recited in claim 1.

These characteristics together with the limitation to "a functionalized diene rubber having at least one functional group per rubber molecule capable of enabling controlled radical polymerization" (claim 1, ll. 6-7) are considered to distinguish the instantly claimed composition over the prior art.

Based primarily on the foregoing, claims 1-14 are deemed to define allowable subject matter and passed to issue.

Any comments considered necessary by applicants must be submitted no later than the payment of the issue fee and, to avoid processing delays, should preferably accompany the issue fee. Such submissions should be clearly labeled "Comments on Statement of Reasons for Allowance."
